

Welcome

Sparkling Sentences

I feel like I'm missing something, but it's (it is) too far to reach.

Since humor can result in a positive attitude, many people use it as a method of dealing with emotions and expressing themselves.

Goals are there to make sure that you don't get lost in this confusing maze called life.

Steve Harrington was the bomb in a way. Things without him the television would be bland and dry.

My older sister makes a big mess and never picks it up, so my reaction is, "I don't know what's picking that up, but it's not me."

That one friend you considered family, whose smile would light up your eyes, is now the same person that makes you cry every time you try to go to sleep.

After being told Santa isn't real, Christmas hasn't been as amusing, but I still make it believable for my siblings (because I'm a girl sister).

What is the point of expecting if some don't show reality?

So many people hate the new Snapchat update so bad that even Kylie Jenner subtweeted about it.

When I was in elementary school, I was very ignorant and rarely got A's.

Sometimes we don't realize how big the experiences we are living are until we look back on them.

People paint their faces to look like skulls, they dress up as if they were dead, and they roam around the streets of Mexico.

When they all come to my house at once, my room looks like a zoo, but without cages.

Life can be fun, till death catches up to you.

My confidence is falling faster than water at a waterfall.

Today at lunch I had one yogurt. This yogurt was so good, I could take a bath in it.

This day helps people understand that one day, they might not have any of the love and support they get from their family and friends; it'll all be gone one day.

These dreams were locked together like a pair of lovers who feared life and death.

We didn't celebrate when my sister learned how to talk back to us and be wrong 99% of the time or whenever we did something small.

I would say that it's good to sometimes chill out with the bros or just relax from school for a while.

My eye twitched as I finished what remained of the scrumptious dessert, and I walked out of the kitchen astonished by the text maker's identity.

My mom tells her she doesn't know who's doing it, but she suspects the sly little raccoons are the culprits.

While some slaves Harriet Tubman would walk through the forest, stare up at the dark sky and bright moon, and think "It's still not enough."

Once African Americans heard the news, they celebrated in the streets, looked up to the sky and thought, "I am free."

When we do not consider accomplishments, birthdays, and birthdays, then life would be more stable than getting left out in the open. You can try it, but it's not going to be good.

Some people are afraid to let go and be themselves.

Celebrations are like plastic containers; they keep things fresh/preserved, like celebrations keep our cultures and memories preserved.

She gets mad, but she also forgets stuff like me. I wonder who I got the "forgetting everything" from?

Have you ever celebrated? I'll bet my kidneys you have.

North Korea is just an old dog who's all bark and no bite.

At first I let their backstabbing go by, and my friend explains to them I just have really good armor.

It's hard to wait for more news about anything besides Donald Trump to come up since it seems like the news stations these days can't seem to get over the muddy orange.

Many people might not care whether you want to express love, but the most care and beautiful people show and express their love.

Finally, we were standing beside a really tall dude with some glasses and a weird looking haircut and I asked "Who's that guy?" She told me "It was her brother, it was her brother."

One day they marched to the area of the Sparkards, saw all the men that ruled them, and thought, "We need to get revenge."

During the time Hurricane Harvey was going on, I felt so bad Donald Trump didn't care rather than helping to help, he was somewhere else!

The day it came we kicked its butt, got really high grades, and our teacher was very proud of us.

When I got ready to see her for the first time, my feet were just up and down party.

All I saw was this bundle of black fur with eyes, and I thought, "I love her already."

Afterwards, my parents told me they made the party so awesome because it was my last year of being a child, and when I'm a teenager, I wouldn't be able to enjoy such parties.

I remembered as we said our final goodbyes that I started to lose feelings in my legs like they were wishbones breaking apart.

I hated the class, there was no happiness, and there was a mean substitute.

I thought to myself, "How'd it get there?" Was Jesus? (Jesus is my brother, I'm not talking about how God trolled me).

One day they marched to the area of the Sparkards, saw all the men that ruled them, and thought, "We need to get revenge."

When I was in elementary school, I was very ignorant and rarely got A's.

Some people are afraid to let go and be themselves.

Celebrations are like plastic containers; they keep things fresh/preserved, like celebrations keep our cultures and memories preserved.

She gets mad, but she also forgets stuff like me. I wonder who I got the "forgetting everything" from?

Have you ever celebrated? I'll bet my kidneys you have.

North Korea is just an old dog who's all bark and no bite.

At first I let their backstabbing go by, and my friend explains to them I just have really good armor.

It's hard to wait for more news about anything besides Donald Trump to come up since it seems like the news stations these days can't seem to get over the muddy orange.

I just want to not exist. Well I don't want to necessarily die, I just want to disappear for awhile.

We thought she brought us donuts or something, but then she opens the box and it's a pregnancy test with two red lines! Two red lines means she's pregnant!

The more they dreamed at this, the more goals they set, and the more goals they set, the closer they were to achieving them.

I thought for sure I was not going to win until I heard a 3, followed by a 4, and then an AN.

Afterwards, my parents told me they made the party so awesome because it was my last year of being a child, and when I'm a teenager, I wouldn't be able to enjoy such parties.

I remembered as we said our final goodbyes that I started to lose feelings in my legs like they were wishbones breaking apart.

I mean, you have to be a terrible movie if you only have 6 percent on Rotten Tomatoes.

When I first walked in, I saw kids that were way bigger than me. It was then that I realized I didn't like school.

This is my payback for her making me push them when she takes a nap, so "HA" in your face Mom!

I remembered as we said our final goodbyes that I started to lose feelings in my legs like they were wishbones breaking apart.

I remembered as we said our final goodbyes that I started to lose feelings in my legs like they were wishbones breaking apart.

I remembered as we said our final goodbyes that I started to lose feelings in my legs like they were wishbones breaking apart.

I remembered as we said our final goodbyes that I started to lose feelings in my legs like they were wishbones breaking apart.

I would say that it's good to sometimes chill out with the bros or just relax from school for a while.

Google ynx

10 St... Give your...